Action Line is your service, solving your problems, getting your answers, cutting red tape and standing up for your rights. To get action, write ACTION LINE, Box 230, Long Beach, Calif. 90801, or dial 432-3451 between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m., or 5 p.m. and 9 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Q. I'm a director for the Long Beach Teen Post program, and the kids at our post had counted on seeing a sports event at the Los Angeles Coliseum, but now may not be able to go because of a cutback in funds. Can Action Line help us find an inexpensive way to go? J.R., Long Beach.

A. Yes. The teen-posters will get their wish today with the help of Thomas Emery, president, and Vernice Austin, manager, of the Community Charter Bus System, 6349 Paramount Blvd., Long Beach. Two buses will pick up the 100 youngsters at 11:15 a.m. and take them to the British Commonwealth Games at the Coliseum.

Q. I'd like to stock a small private lake with catfish so my grandson and other youngsters can fish. How do I go about it? F.G.P., Long Beach.

A. If you're set to do some angling, you can start by filling out the application for a private stocking permit ACTION LINE is sending you from the State Fish and Game Department. You don't have to get a domestic fish breeder's license if you don't plan to charge admission to your pond, says a department spokesman. You'll need a permit to transport fish from the commercial fish breeder which supplies them. The purpose of the permits is to prevent the spread of diseased fish, the spokesman says. Seasons, bag limits and other state angling regulations apply to private waters, too, the department adds. ACTION LINE is also sending you information on farm fish ponds, a list of commercial breeders, a list of fish culture publications, and algae control information. Others wanting the same information can call 620-4327, or write the Department of Fish and Game, Room 903, 217 W. First St., Los Angeles, Calif. 90012.

Q. My brother is in the U.S. Army in Germany with the 3rd Armored Cavalry Regiment. Is there any way my family can see howitzers like the ones my brother works with? S.M., Long Beach.

A. Yes. You can watch a drill of Battery A, 3rd Battalion, 144th Artillery this weekend at their Culver City armory, 10808 Culver Blvd., says Sgt. L. L. Klus. The battery will drill with two 105-millimeter howitzers — one self-propelled and the other towed — between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. today and Sunday. The armory is open to the public daily. A huge eight-inch howitzer is expected to return next week to the 40th Armored Division Artillery headquarters at 1300 Federal Ave. in Los Angeles. Most of the outfit's big guns are being used at Army training sites throughout California and at the Marine Corps' Camp Pendleton, says Warrant Officer Carl Lowgerm. You can call headquarters at 479-6713.

Q. My mother and father, who live in Indiana, find many arrowheads when they go on hikes. I've been trying to find a book to help identify Indian tribes by their hunting heads. Can you find out about any? Mrs. L.A.S., Long Beach.

A. Yes. Although they may appear similar, arrowheads of different tribes in different parts of the United States differ greatly — usually because hunted game differs. "The Handbook of American Indians North of Mexico" is available at the reference desk of the literature and history department of the Long Beach Public Library, Pacific Avenue and Ocean Boulevard. The entire 48-volume U.S. Bureau of American Ethnology Reports is available at the Los Angeles City Library, and a spokesman at the history reference desk says there is much comparative information on arrowheads.

Q. I've heard about a mountain in Colorado that is supposed to have the shape of a cross on it when the snow melts each spring. Can you tell me more about this mountain? Mrs. V.S.D., South Gate.

A. Sure. Mountain of the Holy Cross, which towers 13,996 feet above the Colorado plains near Redcliff, has a huge, cross-shaped crevice which traps snow during the spring thaw and forms a blazing white cross. It was well-known to Indian tribes in the 1800s, and became famous after explorer W. H. Jackson photographed it in the early 1900s. Annual pilgrimages to the mountain began in 1927 and continue today, says a spokesman at the Estes Park, Colo., public library.

Q. I'm the director of the Intercommunity Exceptional Children's Home, 2666 Grand Ave. We desperately need volunteer workers. Can you help? Dr. J.B., Long Beach.

A. Yes. We relayed your plea to two young women, 17 and 20, who had called ACTION LINE asking for institutions needing volunteer work. Both women promised to call you.

REACTION

I believe in free speech and the right to assemble, but some folks carry it beyond the law. During television coverage of the near-riots when President Johnson visited Los Angeles, I saw a man exhorting youths to riot when the President arrived. This is too much. There are laws in this state against inciting riots, and they should be enforced in cases like these. Right or wrong this is our country and it deserves our loyalty. President Johnson is our leader and he should have our respect, even if we disagree with him. No president or private citizen should be subjected to a possible riot, even though demonstrations of displeasure seem to be becoming more popular. J. H. M., Long Beach.

SOUND OFF!

Forget the problem of electric autos — something should be done to educate the pedestrians of this city who seem to think they are immortal as they walk between the lines of a crosswalk. Some pedestrians seem to think a crosswalk is a brick wall, and just step out in front of cars without the slightest worry. Perhaps a law change is due. Cars have to yield right of way to trains, so it would seem better if pedestrians should yield to cars. The pedestrian is not helped, but hurt, by having the right of way because of the false sense of security it gives him. S.K., Paramount.

FIGHTING HERO RECUPERATES

Wounded Warrior Remembers Viet

FIGHTING CPL. DOMINGO TREVINO, 20

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Reality seemed strange and undesirable to Marine Cpl. Domingo Trevino last Sunday.

He was surrounded by jungle foliage, blood flowed from wounds in his back and left leg. His hands were tied behind his back by members of the North Vietnamese unit that had badly mauled Trevino's Bravo Company of the 9th Marines.

Little did he realize then that in five days he would be reunited with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Domingo Trevino Sr. of San Marcos in his native Texas.

The 20-year-old San Marcos native told his story Friday after arriving at the U.S. Naval Hospital in Corpus Christi. He said Bravo Company started out about 8 a.m. Sunday to sweep an area near Con Thien, about 2 miles below the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam.

Trevino was a radio operator at a forward command post which normally is protected by other units. "We started drawing heavy sniper fire and then direct fire. We were pinned down in an open area along a trail," he said.

"The North Vietnamese were in the jungle all around us — dug in. We fired back, but every few minutes someone in my unit got hit. We were spread out along the trail and never got a chance to dig in. There was only brush for protection," he added.

Trevino's first wound came about three hours after the firing started. A bullet, probably fired by a sniper in a tree, crashed through his left leg. He said the shooting soon slowed down and he could hear nothing except scattered machinegun fire.

"I thought they had killed everybody," he said.

The loss of blood and heat from the midday sun caused Trevino to lose consciousness. When he awoke, he turned and saw several North Vietnamese firing a machinegun nearby. Instead of keeping quiet, the veteran of 20 months of Vietnamese fighting lifted his M16 rifle and fired an entire magazine, 17 bullets, at the enemy.

He was unable to reload and one of the numerous rounds fired at him struck him just below the right shoulder. His flak jacket slowed the bullet and probably saved his life. About a half dozen North Vietnamese swarmed over him, tying his hands behind his back and dragging him off into the jungle.

"I don't know how far they dragged me," Trevino said as he opened his blue hospital shirt to show rope burns on his arms and scratches and bruises.

"I passed out several times as they were dragging me off," he said. He said the captors were all young and all wore "greens about like ours."

Trevino said his captors finally dropped him by a large tree and disappeared into the jungle. He lay there alone for about two hours, passing out and then regaining his senses.

He finally awoke to hear a tank moving through the jungle. He yelled for help and several U.S. Infantrymen, walking with the tank, spotted him.

"They just looked and passed on by because they were at the 'point,' but the guys behind them came and picked me up," he said.

Because Trevino had his hands tied, his rescuers apparently thought he had been tied and then shot. At least two news reports of the battle told of how he had been tied to a tree, shot and left for dead.

REAGAN WILL SIGN

Solons Add Days, Nights to Racing

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Night horse racing and extension of California's racing days won final legislative approval Friday and headed toward quick inauguration at the state's tracks this year.

The Assembly's 56-20 vote sent the measure to Gov. Reagan, who has said he'll sign the bill.

The lower House approved a Senate amendment which would put the legislation into effect immediately after Reagan approves it. The bill is the most drastic change in state racing laws in more than 30 years.

Friday's Assembly vote on the bill's urgency clause was delayed while supporters gathered the needed two-thirds majority.

The State Finance Department estimates that the bill will bring in between $14 million and $18 million in new revenue next year, without raising taxes on race tracks.

The bill extends the number of state racing days, compiled for all tracks, from 600 to 720 a year. Racing would be permitted simultaneously in Northern and Southern California.

And the State Horse Racing Board would be permitted to approve night harness racing.

Reagan has said he'll approve the bill although he doesn't like the idea of night racing.

The Senate approved the measure 30-7 Thursday.

In other actions, Assembly Republicans lost another move to speed up a vote on Gov. Reagan's $43.5 million budget cuts before Democrats could possibly round up enough votes to restore the funds.

With that victory, Democrats proceeded to increase pressure on GOP members to override the governor's vetoes, which included funds in the controversial mental health and higher education areas.

Democrats united behind Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D-Inglewood, to move the 53 veto items back to inactive status.

A two-thirds majority of 54 votes is needed to override the veto items. Since Democrats hold a margin of only 42-38, they need to muster at least 12 Republicans to vote against the GOP governor's budget cuts.

Thus, Unruh has said he wants to keep the items on the shelf a while to let the pressure build on Republicans and Reagan, whose $1 billion tax increase bill still must go through the Assembly.

Shipyard Payroll Robbed, Two Suspects Captured

Two clumsy robbers tried to cash in on payday at the Long Beach Naval Shipyard Friday, but dropped their stolen $2,429 as they scrambled over a wire fence in escaping.

Two suspects were nabbed minutes later by the messenger who was robbed, a shipyard policeman and several Marines.

Booked by Long Beach police for investigation of robbery on a federal reservation were Robert Calvin Dixon, 32, and Ronald Sullivan, 32, both of Los Angeles.

Wesley G. Grapp, FBI special agent in charge in Los Angeles, said two men waylaid an employee sent to the shipyard's credit union by 10 workers in Shop 56 to cash their checks.

As the messenger — whom the FBI declined to identify — returned with the money at about 9:30 a.m., he was grabbed by two men who told him: "Don't make any noise or we'll blow your head off."

They tied him with a silk stocking and taped his wrists and mouth, took the money and ran across a parking lot before climbing over a fence.

Grapp said the messenger quickly worked himself loose, spread the alarm and then joined the search for the pair. The suspects were nabbed minutes later trying to get off the base.

The money was found near the fence.

Neither of the men was an employ at the shipyard, Grapp said.

300 China Reds Raid Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP) — A crowd of 300 Chinese crossed the Communist Chinese border Saturday and attacked a Hong Kong police post in the border village of Sha Tau Kok, the Hong Kong government reported.

The government said three police constables were killed and several others wounded when the mob opened fire upon them. Sha Tau Kok straddles the China-Hong Kong border, which runs along the village's main street.

The Hong Kong government reported 300 Chinese crossed the border about 11 a.m. and began the stoning. Police fired wooden projectiles and tear gas in an attempt to drive the crowd back.

Armed members of the crowd opened fire, the government said, and the three Hong Kong police constables were killed. Other details were not immediately available.

Sha Tau Kok is in the "closed" border area from which all persons except residents, officials and police are barred.

Stormvogel 425 Miles Out in Race

Enjoying favorable winds in the Transpacific Yacht Race, the 72-foot Stormvogel, Cornelius Brynzell's ketch, sailed 238 miles Friday, but other top contenders didn't report.

Stormvogel was 425 miles from Los Angeles on the 2,225-mile run to Hawaii. Others that had held leading positions, including the Serena, Kialoa II and Audacious, did not respond in the radio rollcall.

Weather forecasts indicated good breezes will continue, in place of calms that slowed progress earlier.

Race officials said the Bando, captained by Lew M. Warden Jr., radioed that she was returning to the mainland, but gave no reason why.

It's no disgrace to be poor. As a matter of fact, it may turn out to be the only way to make a living nowadays.

Blonde Flier Ends Earhart Flight

Combined News Service

Blonde, windblown Ann Pellegrino, retracing the route on which Amelia Earhart mysteriously vanished 30 years ago, landed at Oakland International Airport Friday afternoon, completing a four-week flight around the world.

The aviatrix and former schoolteacher from Saline, Mich., was accompanied by a three-man crew on the east-bound flight. Their Lockheed Model 10 Electra, a 30-year-old plane of the same type Miss Earhart flew, made the final leg from Honolulu to Oakland in 18 hours and 25 minutes.

Amelia Earhart and her navigator, Fred Noonan, disappeared July 2, 1937, while flying from New Guinea to Howland Island in the Southwest Pacific.

Asked if her trip had shed any light on the Earhart disappearance, she replied, "We talked to a few people. We have some information coming in by mail, but I think she (Miss Earhart) went down in the Pacific not an abnormally far distance from Howland Island."

STUFFY SOVIET

A French movie actress told Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin Friday night that Russian movies are too stuffy. The smiling Kosygin replied that France isn't ready yet for Soviet films, and anyway, American movies are worse.

"Mr. Premier," actress Nicole Courcel retorted, "you are a formidable gentleman." The exchange took place at a French embassy reception for visiting Premier George Pompidou. Both Kosygin and Miss Courcel, here for the Moscow film festival, were guests and were introduced.

"Tell me," Kosygin asked her, "Do you like our films? Please be frank."

"You know," she said, "I am not a diplomat and I hope you won't put me in jail. Some are good and some are bad, but on the whole I find them too academic." Make films for the whole world, films we would like.

Eshkol Plays Dayan--'Gen. Rabin the Hero'

TEL AVIA — Premier Levi Eshkol said Friday that major credit for Israel's victory in the recent war was due to the chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Itzhak Rabin, and his staff.

He said Maj. Gen. Moshe Dayan's main contribution had been to bolster morale. The same results would have been achieved on the battlefield, Eshkol said, if he himself had retained the defense portfolio.

Eshkol turned over the defense portfolio to Dayan three days before the fighting started on June 5. He did so after elements in the army and government indicated the lack of confidence in the way the Eshkol government was handling the crisis.

ESHKOL DERIDED suggestions that the outcome of the war and the fate of the nation had been determined in the three days after Dayan became

FLY HOME

The children of two wealthy Chicago families flew home Friday after a harrowing kidnapping episode that began while they were exploring a "hippie" area near the University of California at Berkeley.

The youngsters, Melissa Harvey, 17, daughter of Daggett Harvey, president of the Harvey restaurant chain, and her boyfriend, Scott L. Schissler, 16, son of prominent real estate operator Mark Schissler, were credited with "real fast thinking" by police. The abductors, both Negro, drove the teen-agers to nearby Richmond. One announced he was going to rape the girl.

"I said, 'No you're not—forget it,'" Melissa related. "He said, 'I'm going to rape you anyway.'" She said she pretended to go along and stepped out of the car as if to undress, leaving her shoes in the car. "But then I ran." A passerby approached, and the suspects fled.

Police arrested Harold Earl, 27, Richmond, and charged him with kidnapping.

Chrysler Calls Back

6,000 Defective Cars

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. Friday announced recall of more than 6,000 late 1966 and early 1967 model cars because of a possible defect in front-wheel disc brakes.

The firm said it had notified the National Safety Agency plus owners of the cars involved to return them to dealers for inspection and any necessary corrections.

PRISON SLOP

Richard Franklin Speck, condemned to death for the murder of eight Chicago nurses, was involved in a prison ruckus Friday.

Speck and three other "death row" prisoners at Joliet, Ill., called their breakfast slop, then hurled the food and hot coffee at two guards and two inmates, officials said. Speck also complained that noise from radios and television interrupted his sleep.

U.S. Hits MIG Base, Oil Depots

Combined News Services

SAIGON — U.S. warplanes attacked a MIG base northeast of Hanoi Friday and bombed two oil depots near Haiphong while Air Force B-52s made three raids against Communist positions in South Vietnam. North Vietnamese artillery kept up their artillery and mortar barrages against U.S. Marines positions just below the Demilitarized Zone dividing North and South Vietnam. Artillery fire killed 14 Marines and wounded 25 Friday at the Con Thien outpost, a Marine spokesman reported today.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland urged Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara Friday to put more American troops into the Vietnam war which, he said, "We are winning, slowly but steadily." The commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, with 464,000 servicemen on hand, was believed to want at least 100,000 additional soldiers, a number that probably would mean calling up some reservists. There was no immediate indication of McNamara's response. Search operations continued in the China Sea for Maj. Gen. William J. Crumm, one of six men missing after collision of two B-52s in a Vietnam raid Thursday. Crumm, a 26-year Air Force veteran, is commander of the Strategic Air Command's 3rd Air Division. In North Vietnam, one of the nation's most powerful men, Gen. Nguyen Chi Thanh, died of a heart attack. He was 53.

Bonn to Cut Troops

BONN, Germany — Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger announced plans Friday to cut West Germany's 461,000-man army to enable his government to balance its budgets for the next four years. The move will put West Germany even further away from meeting its commitment to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization for an army of 500,000 men. West Germany has never met this pledge. Kiesinger did not specify how many men would be cut but reliable estimates put the figure at 40,000 to 60,000. In Washington, the State Department said the U.S. would be opposed to any one-sided troop cutback by West Germany without consultation. West German officials said there will be consultations with West Germany's allies before any troop cuts actually take place.

43 Die; Driver Held

BANGKOK — Police Friday blamed Thailand's worst railroad tragedy on a bus driver who survivors claimed leaped from the overcrowded vehicle just before it tumbled into the path of an express train. The bus driver was charged with negligent homicide. At least 43 persons died. On Thursday an East German double-decker train rammed a fuel truck, touching off a fiery explosion that killed 78 persons.

NEA Will Fund Teacher Strikes

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — The National Education Association will support local affiliates that strike school systems with funds, legal advice and staff under a new policy adopted at the association's annual convention here Friday. The policy was approved by the 6,500 members of the NEA's representative assembly. It marks a significant departure from the organization's traditional disdain for "unprofessional" work stoppages. While the policy demands that "every effort" be made to avoid a strike situation, it recognizes that "under conditions of severe stress" strikes will occur. Delegates named the first Negro president-elect in the NEA's 110-year history, Mrs. Elizabeth D. Koonz, Salisbury, N.C. The NEA in other resolutions attacked de facto segregation caused by residential patterns, urged general rather than categori-

Riot News Curb Urged

WASHINGTON — Justice Department officials have been meeting quietly with news media representatives in racially tense cities to urge restraint in the reporting of racial flare-ups, the New York Times Service said Friday. The efforts are aimed at persuading local radio and television stations not to broadcast news of incipient riots until the police have had time to bring the incidents under control. Meetings have been held since April with city officials and news media representatives in about a dozen cities, among them New York, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, New Orleans, Chicago, Houston, St. Louis, Omaha and Buffalo.

Flu Outbreak Forecast

WASHINGTON — An outbreak of A2 type influenza next winter was forecast Friday by Surgeon General William H. Stewart, especially in the East. He urged that vaccine be used for people in groups known to experience high mortality from epidemic flu. Immunization should begin as soon after Oct. 1, he said.

Vagrancy Law Junked

ALBANY, N.Y. — New York's highest court threw out Friday an old state law that permitted arrests on vagrancy charges if it could be shown that a person had no "visible means of support." The appeal was based on the argument that the statute interfered with personal freedom—the right of a man to conduct himself as he sees fit as long as he does not interfere with others.

Downpour Floods Denver

DENVER — A fast-moving cloud-burst dumped nearly 2 inches of rain and hail on Denver in less than an hour Friday afternoon, causing the death of one woman and flooding hundreds of homes. Mrs. Terry K. Heckenburg 24, drowned in front of her southwest Denver home. In that area overloaded drains resulted in a lake of water five feet deep and 150 feet across at South Mariposa Street and West Louisiana Avenue. Portions of the Valley Highway had to be closed as the water washed cars off the highway. Most of the nation basked in warm July sunshine. Temperatures stayed comfortably in the 70s and 80s under clear skies.

D.A. Accused in Plot

BESSEMER, Ala. — Asst. Dist. Atty. James Hammonds was arrested Friday on an indictment accusing him of conspiracy to kill a circuit judge and on a sixth count of bribery. A special grand jury recommended that he be impeached. The grand jury also indicted Rudolph Michael Pipolo, 40, New York City, and accused him in the alleged conspiracy to kill Circuit Judge Gardner F. Goodwyn Jr. Pipolo has been arrested in New York on an Alabama warrant.

Canada Sniper Charged

VANCOUVER, B.C. — A sallow, slender, middle-aged bachelor who collected guns as a hobby was charged with murder Friday for the sniper slaying of a young couple and the wounding of two women. Arthur John Towell, 35, described by police as an Air Force veteran with a history of mental instability, faces two counts of first degree murder and two of attempted murder. Killed in the brief fusillade of a dozen or more shots were David D. A. Webster, 31, an assistant professor of education, and his wife, Marlene, 30.

Bias Drive in North

WASHINGTON — A federal civil rights official said Friday the government is planning for the first time a major move against racial discrimination in schools of the North. Since passage of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, federal officials have had their hands full dealing with illegal dual school systems for whites and Negroes in the South. A spokesman said it will be a vastly more difficult job to find and halt discrimination in Northern schools.

NBC Aide Charged by Garrison

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Walter Sheridan, an investigator for the National Broadcasting Co., Friday was charged with public bribery of a prime witness in Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's presidential assassination conspiracy case.

Garrison charged Sheridan with public bribery of witness Perry Raymond Russo, 25, a Baton Rouge insurance man.

Russo is the main witness in Garrison's case charging that Clay L. Shaw

The National Broadcasting Company announced in New York Friday it was giving New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison a half-hour of prime time next Saturday to rebut NBC's broadcast last month which was strongly critical of Garrison's probe of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. The network said Garrison would appear from 8 to 8:30 p.m. of New Orleans conspired in 1963 to kill President Kennedy.

Sheridan had contacted Russo in connection with an NBC program that criticized Garrison's tactics in his conspiracy investigation. Russo did not appear on the program.

THE FOUR counts against Sheridan charged he committed public bribery about June 11 by offering Russo:

—Lodging in California.

—Payment of legal fees in extradition proceedings.

—Protection and immunity from the state of Louisiana and Garrison's office.

—Guaranteed employment in California and job security.

Russo appeared in Garrison's office Friday, but he said he did not know why he had been asked to come.

Dist. Judge Thomas M. Brahmey Jr. ordered Sheridan's arrest, with bond set at $5,000.

A spokesman in Garrison's office said Sheridan's whereabouts were not known.

Sheridan was in the criminal courts building here June 28, the day William Gurvich, a former chief investigator for Garrison, voluntarily appeared before the Orleans Parish grand jury.

Gurvich broke with Garrison recently, saying there was nothing to his case.

Pay Hiked for 100,000 State Jobs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The State Personnel Board put into effect today a 4.9 percent pay raise for the state's 100,000 civil service employees.

The legislature and Gov. Reagan earlier had authorized funds for the increases in the 1967-68 state budget.

The board granted additional special equity hikes to about 5,000 workers. These included a 5 per cent raise for 3,800 social, parole and auxiliary medical employees; 2½ per cent raise to 900 doctors and 270 supervising psychiatric technicians; and a 3 per cent raise to 325 youth authority employees doing group counseling and supervisory work.

'JUNK' MAIL PREACHES SERMON TO SOLO
Mrs. Richard Puckett, Mrs. Gary Parker Visit Rep. Richard T. Hanna

2 Sailors Nabbed in Park Rape

Two San Francisco sailors were in jail today, charged with the kidnapping of 21-year-old Long Beach cocktail waitress and the abduction of her 18-month-old baby.

Long Beach police said they captured Gary Richard Langstaff, 19, and David Dale Ahlman, 20, two crewmen from the USS Isle Royale, as they crouched in bushes in Long Beach Recreation Park early Friday after the sex attack.

They were captured an hour after the woman escaped her captors, ran naked to a nearby house and summoned officers.

THE VICTIM'S baby was found unharmed by the officers when the apprehended the two suspects.

The waitress told officers that the two men followed her from the Orange County bar in which she works shortly after closing time Friday morning. She said she attempted to lose them by doubling back, driving down alleys without lights and by making fast turns away from them.

She said she thought the two were gone when she pulled up in front of her baby-sitter's house on Junipero Avenue but when she returned to the car carrying her infant, she was grabbed from behind, her baby seized and the two of them roughly shoved into the car.

She said the pair drove her and the baby to Recreation Park where the attack took place.

Police said Ahlman readily admitted being along on the spree, but denied any role.

"I had nothing to do with it," police quoted him. "It was not my idea. It was all Gary's idea and I was just being a good friend."

Reagan Budget, Tax Talk Slated on TV

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Reagan will make a 15-minute report to the people over television and radio Sunday evening on his budget and tax program.

Reagan will deliver the report in a Los Angeles television studio at 4:30 p.m. SO FAR, ¼ TELE-p.m. So far, 22 television stations have indicated they will carry the report, either live at 4:30 p.m. or on video tape later in the evening.

Federal Transport Funds Help the Poor Find Jobs

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — A survey has indicated that the administration's experimental program to underwrite public transportation in low-income areas has apparently succeeded in its primary mission: helping the poor find jobs outside the ghetto.

The survey — some details of which were released by the Department of Housing and Urban Development — covered the housing agency's "Century Boulevard" project in Los Angeles, a single 13-mile bus line that links the low-income Watts area with industrial centers in the northeast area.

The project, which began operation exactly one year ago, grew out of the investigation of the 1965 Watts riots by a presidential commission headed by John McCone.

The McCone Commission report concluded that the high cost of transportation — in time and money — effectively isolated Watts residents from job opportunities in other parts of the city, intensified poverty in the area and caused frustration and despair.

According to the survey, the number of riders on the route has increased steadily from an initial weekday average of 883 to a present level of 2,642 passengers.

In addition, the survey showed that 57 per cent of the passengers making westbound trips — that is, the passengers making westbound trips — that is, leaving the Watts area — were traveling to work, and of these, 35 per cent, or 202 persons, stated that the Century line had made it possible for them to obtain their jobs, an additional 1818 persons — or 31 per cent of those making work-related trips — told interviewers that the line had enabled them to hold jobs they already had.

Encouraged by these results, the housing agency has embarked on two similar projects. A $2 million grant to New York, awarded in March, is aimed at providing low-income residents of Nassau and Suffolk counties with easier access to job opportunities. And on June 22, the agency announced a $1.4 million grant to St. Louis to develop new transportation services between downtown slums and suburban industrial complexes.

The agency's commitment to the idea — and the Watts project specifically — was further illustrated Friday when assistant secretary Charles M. Haar, whose office is responsible for the urban mass transportation program, announced that despite a five-cent fare increase in all other Los Angeles bus lines the fare for Century Boulevard riders would remain at 25 cents.

Present funds available to the two-year project amount to $2.7 million.

Women Protest 'Junk' in Mails
By BOB GEIVET
There's too much "junk" mail nowadays, and it's costing the postal patron too much, the West Garden Grove Junior Women's Club complained Friday.
Mrs. Gary Parker, president of the club, and Mrs. Richard Puckett, who headed a "mail collection committee," dumped 76 pounds of it on the floor of Rep. Richard T. Hanna's office along with a plea for higher rates "as the only control."
They said that 30 members of their club collected an average of 2½ pounds of unsolicited advertising mail each in a 30-day period—and it added up to 76 pounds in all.
Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Puckett said that their club members believe that low postal rates for such mail actually is costing the postal patron money, because first-class rates must advance to pay the Post Office deficit. They asked Hanna to back their demand for higher rates for such mail.
Hanna said that the matter of postal rate increases, proposed by President Johnson, will be up for consideration this fall.

Congo Refugees, Some Wounded, Flee to Rhodesia

Associated Press

A planeload of wounded whites and Africans from the remote and confused battlegrounds of the Congo landed Friday night in Rhodesia with the first tangible evidence to emerge from the fighting.

The Congolese government said those commanding the plane were mercenaries fleeing from the embattled area of Kisangani, formerly Stanleyville.

Other sources said three evacuation planes in all were involved—two the mercenaries used to fly into battle and one hijacked from the Congo government to join the withdrawal.

The two other planes remained unreported.

THE FIRST evacuation plane, in distress and searching for a landing spot while running out of gas, set down at Kariba, a town northwest of Salisbury on the Rhodesian-Zambian border.

The Rhodesian government announced the wounded were treated in the Kariba hospital and the plane was impounded.

A far-flung, fantastic plot to unseat Congo President Joseph D. Mobutu apparently had not yet run its course, however, despite the reported departure of some white mercenary leaders from the eastern Congo.

Details of the new Congo adventure story began to emerge in widely separated places just a week after the yam began to spin with the airborne kidnapping of Congo ex-premier Moise Tshombe over the Mediterranean a week ago Friday night.

Most details came from Rhodesia in reports of the plane landing; Algiers, where the Algerian government told of how Tshombe was detained into captivity by a gunman in his charter plane; and at the United Nations, where the Congo ambassador told of a three-pronged plot on behalf of Tshombe against Mobutu.

Tshombe has been a center of intrigue at home and in exile since he pulled his mineral-rich Katanga province out of the newly independent Congo in 1960, when the Belgians finally were supposed to have quit the vast mid-African area.

TSHOMBE HAD been president of Katanga. In one of his later comebacks he became premier of the entire Congo, but fell out with his colleagues and last March as convicted in absentia of treason and sentenced to death.

The Tshombe plane a week ago was diverted at gunpoint to Algiers, and Tshombe has been held incommunicado there ever since. Mobutu's Congolese government immediately asked that Tshombe be extradited so he could be executed. He had been living in exile for 19 months, mostly in Madrid.

A few days after Tshombe's kidnapping, the Congo government said white mercenaries were back, attacking on Wednesday to gain a foothold in Bukavu and part of Kisangani.

Nigeria, Rebel State Wage War

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI)—Federal Nigerian troops invaded the secessionist eastern region and captured two of its northern border villages in fighting with rebel forces, Lagos Radio said Friday night.

"A great number of casualties" was reported in the fighting, according to another announcement, this one by the government radio in the self-styled rebellious Republic of Biafra.

The report from the Biafran capital of Enugu said Biafran soldiers had repulsed the invasion and forced the federal troops five miles back into federal territory.

(In Washington, State Department officials said U.S. monitor reports on a broadcast from Radio Enugu in the eastern region said eastern forces had repulsed a four-pronged attack and had countered by taking a town five miles inside the northern region.)

Single L.B. District Seen in Redistricting

From Our State Bureau
SACRAMENTO Long Beach and an adjacent Orange County area would be lumped into the same congressional district under a redistricting plan pending before a Senate committee.

The Senate elections and reapportionment committee, giving preliminary approval to amendments for recarving California's 38 congressional district lines, has placed all of Long Beach in the same district.

Also in the "Long Beach" 32nd district would be a section of Orange County west of Bolsa Chica Road and south of Katella. The 32nd thus would take in the Rossmore-Seal Beach area.

The 32nd district now is represented by Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Long Beach.

Tentative lines call for the adjoining 34th district, where Rep. Richard T. Hanna, D-Fullerton, is the congressman, to include Lakewood, Hawaiian Gardens, Anaheim, Garden Grove and Buena Park—including the section of Orange County which is west of the Santa Ana River and not slated for the 32nd district.

Rep. Cecil R. King, D-Inglewood, would have a "17th" district that would include the Gardena, Torrance and San Pedro-Wilmington harbor area. Inside the 17th would be Dominguez.

Whittier, La Mirada, Artesia and Norwalk would be placed in the 19th district—a territory now served by Rep. Chet Holifield, D-Montebello.

This only is preliminary action on redistricting plans. Alterations probably will be made in the assembly.

Chief beneficiary of the Long Beach area line changes may be Orange County's democratic congressman, Hanna. Hanna could face a tough future race if Republicans gain more registration in his present district.

Lakewood area, where democrats enjoy a registration bulge, was tucked onto the Hanna district in a move that will strengthen the district for democrats.

Hearing Slated for State to Nullify Execution Stay

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The State of California has been granted a hearing next Monday in its move to block a U.S. District Court judge's order halting executions in the San Quentin Prison gas chamber.

The hearing was set by the U.S. Court of Appeals after State Atty. Gen. Thomas Lynch filed a petition to dissolve stays for 58 condemned men granted Wednesday by Judge Robert Peckham.

Lynch requested the Monday hearing so that the appeals court could rule in time for Tuesday's scheduled execution of Edward L. Arguelli of San Diego who killed an 82-year-old woman.

Judge Peckham's temporary order established a moratorium on the gas chamber until Aug. 3. At that time he will hear the petition of a group of attorneys and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to abolish capital punishment in California.

Whooping Crane Gives Last Holler

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—A one-day-old whooping crane, born Thursday at the San Antonio Zoo, died Friday night.

Zoo director Fred Stark said it appeared the young crane's mother, Rosie, had sat on the small bird, either crushing it or suffocating it. He said as late as mid-afternoon, the young whooping crane had appeared healthy and had eaten two portions of raw fish.

Republican Mrs. Johnson Tours Candidates Lyndon's Old District Eye Hopes

MIRROR LAKE, N.H. (AP)—Govs. George Romney of Michigan and John A. Volpe of Massachusetts, who could be opponents in New Hampshire's 1968 Republican presidential primary, exchanged political views Friday but said they reached no conclusions and made no commitments.

Romney said, however, that his private talks with New Hampshire political leaders had created a "generally favorable impression" and convinced him that if he runs in the primary, "I could win and could have a lot of support from the people I talked to."

ROMNEY AND Volpe swapped big smiles and solid handshakes when they emerged from their private discussion at "The Anchorage," the lakeside summer home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Willard Marriott of Washington, friends of the Romneys.

Volpe said he made no pledge to Romney. Romney has reported he would prefer that Volpe stay out of the March 12 New Hampshire primary.

While the two have made no formal announcements of candidacies, Romney has been in the state since Tuesday assessing his prospects, and Volpe has hinted his willingness to become a New England "favorite son" candidate.

Romney said he had found, through his talks with "significant people," that voters in New Hampshire "don't like a Madison Avenue, circus-like campaign; they like the grass roots, people-to-people approach."

The Michigan governor said he hopes the party will be able to avoid a bitter primary that would split Republicans.

Levy Loses 2nd Bid for Bail Release

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Capt. Howard B. Levy lost his second bid in as many days Friday for release on bail pending appeal of his conviction for making disloyal statements about America's conduct of the Vietnam war.

The U.S. Court of Military Appeals rejected claims by Levy's lawyer that his continued confinement at Ft. Jackson Army Hospital in South Carolina violated his constitutional rights.

A federal district judge in Columbia, S.C., ruled virtually the same thing Thursday in rejecting Levy's petition for a "commander's parole." Judge J. Robert Martin Jr., held that a military officer had no absolute right to bail.

ROUND TOP, Tex. (AP)—Returning to what she called "one of the roots of strength of our country," Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson took a 225-mile trip Friday through the central Texas area her husband once served as congressman.

The trip was planned as a visit to the restored historical sites of the area just southeast of Austin in the 10th Congressional District. But it frequently took on the flavor of a sentimental trip back to see again long-time friends. Dozens of persons who knew the President when he was a congressman here in the 1940s greeted Mrs. Johnson along the seven-stop tour.

The 11-hour tour took Mrs. Johnson, accompanied by the current 10th District congressman, Rep. Jake Pickle, D-Tex., and his wife, to churches, a stagecoach way station, restored homes once owned by heroes of the Texas Revolution, and old cemeteries. The group visited the towns of Lockhart, Praha, La Grange, Winedale and Round Top, and historical sites nearby.

At each stop crowds gathered, bands played and speeches of welcome were recited.

AT PRAHA, a Czech-settled community now so small it's not shown on many maps, Mrs. Johnson spent almost an hour walking through the intricately decorated 73-year-old St. Mary's Catholic Church. The Roman Catholic priest at the church, the Rev. Anthony Valenta, wearing his uniform of the U.S. Army Chaplain Corps, explained in detail the history of the church, its decorations and its parishioners.

She then walked 100 yards down a pecan-tree lined walk to the 112-year-old parish cemetery and placed a wreath of white mums and red carnations on the center monument. A color guard of the Moulton Veterans of Foreign Wars then led Mrs. Johnson to the graves of nine Praha men killed in World War II. At La Grange, Mrs. Johnson planted a pine tree, skillfully manning a gold-painted shovel for three hefty shovelfuls of black earth.

"I dedicate this tree," she said "to the Fayette County people... their historic past and their glorious future."

The tour group and local officials lunched on catfish, blackeyed peas and homemade bread in a picnic setting on the banks of the Colorado River near La Grange.

DREW PEARSON

Fierce Infighting Shaping Up Over GOP Nomination

By DREW PEARSON AND JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — With a year to go before the presidential conventions, the Republican contenders are battling fiercely for the nomination that they earlier thought would be worthless. Now the political pros agree that President Johnson may be beaten in 1968.

Here is the outlook as it appears today from inside the Republican National Committee:

Richard Nixon is out front in the race for delegates while Gov. George Romney is ahead in the popularity polls. But secret soundings show that the conservatives' real favorite California Gov. Ronald Reagan, while the liberals privately prefer Illinois Sen. Charles Percy.

Nixon's secret strategy, say insiders, is to line up delegates quietly at the local level and to act the statesman who stands above petty political squabbling, saying nothing against his rivals that would prevent them from supporting him wholeheartedly if he should become the nominee.

Nixon is trying to keep behind the scenes, and to that end has spent considerable time "studying" abroad.

Meanwhile, Romney is caught in the merciless glare of the spotlight where he is subject to the constant critical, clinical inspection of the press. Other presidential hopefuls also tend to gang up on the front runner, who, judging from the publicity, appears to be Romney, but in the smoke-filled rooms is really Nixon.

Insiders agree that if the convention were to be held now, Nixon would win the nomination. He has enough delegate pledges in his pocket to assure victory. But the former vice president acknowledges privately that his ultimate success will depend upon LBJ's popularity. If the President's rating with the public is low, the Republicans will take a chance on Nixon. But if the President's popularity goes up, the Republicans may look around for a candidate with more ballot-box appeal.

To prove he can win, Nixon is counting upon his unique popularity in New Hampshire to score a stunning victory in the nation's first presidential primary. The confidential polls show that in New Hampshire he has a surprising 2-to-1 edge over Romney.

RICHARD M. NIXON
Top Contender... For Now

Nebraska's Gov. Norbert Tiemann has claimed that Nixon also will win the Nebraska primary. But the confidential polls show that Romney is the clear favorite with Midwestern voters.

Romney's prospects are based upon the backing of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, whose formidable organization is working for the Michigan governor. Rockefeller has warned his fellow moderates that they will lose the nomination by default unless they unite behind Romney.

Other hopefuls, however, are reluctant to give up their bargaining power by offering premature pledges to Romney—as long as they are in a position to make a deal for the vice presidential nomination or perhaps even get a shot at the top spot.

The Washington press corps has also become critical of Romney. His Mormon piety isn't popular with them.

"We're going to get Romney," Hearst's Marianne Means has told high administration officials.

Romney's strategy will be to prove his popularity with the voters by rolling up primary victories. This was the strategy that won the Democratic nomination for John F. Kennedy in 1960. Nixon, in turn, has adopted the strategy that won the Republican nomination for Barry Goldwater in 1964.

Both Reagan and Percy, while disclaiming any presidential ambitions in 1968, have sent political scouts across the country to line up second-choice commitments from the delegates—in case the two top contenders falter.

If this should happen, Rockefeller would fall heir to most of Romney's delegates and would emerge as the strongest contender on the second ballot. He would also be the toughest Republican for the Democrats to beat.

THE LINGERING SHADOW

Probe Lane's 'Rush to Knoll' Theory

By BERNARD GAVZER and SID MOODY
AP Newsfeature Writers

Critic Mark Lane in his book "Rush to Judgment" makes much of the grassy knoll overlooking President John F. Kennedy's motorcade in Dallas.

Lane attaches much significance to what witnesses to the assassination did just after the fatal shots were fired and how the grassy knoll fit into the picture. He says:

"Many officers said that as soon as the shots were fired, they ran directly to

14th in a Series

the knoll and behind the wooden fence and began to search the area, some passing the book depository on the way."

WHY DID people converge on the knoll?

The Charles Hesters ran toward it to seek shelter from the gunfire. Miss Patricia Ann Lawrence, who had been standing at Elm and Houston, ran "along with the crowd" to where the president's car had been when he was hit. So did Mrs. Charles Davis. "I just ran along with them," said Danny Arce.

Curtis Bishop, on the overpass, saw people "running in every direction." Geneva Hine, on the second floor of the depository, saw people running east on Elm, away from the knoll.

Ralph Walters, a deputy sheriff, ran toward the overpass where he had last seen the presidential limousine. "We couldn't get any information."

L. S. SMITH, another deputy, ran toward the depository. A woman said the shots came from the knoll. So Smith ran there. John Wiseman, a deputy, ran to the knoll where he saw police having trouble with a motorcycle. Then a woman pointed to the depository. So he ran there. Deputy W. W. Mabry saw people running toward the overpass area "so I ran that way." Motorcycle patrolman Clyde Haygood drove toward the overpass area "because people were pointing." Then a man mentioned the depository and at 12:34 p.m., four minutes after the assassination, he radioed the police dispatcher:

"I just talked to a guy up here who was standing close to it and the best he could tell it came from the Texas School Book Depository."

DEPUTY ALAN Sweat couldn't tell which way to run because one man told him the shots came from toward the knoll and another said the depository. A colleague with him stayed at the depository while he ran on toward the knoll. Deputies Jack Faulkner and A. D. McCurley ran toward the railroad yards behind the knoll because they saw other officers running there. Officer D. V. Harkness went to the railroad yards because he saw "everybody hitting the ground" there.

In other words, people were running in many directions for many reasons. Most of the sheriff's deputies had been in front of their office around the corner when the shots were fired and ran in the directions they did because of what bystanders told them, because they saw others running that way or because of where they thought the sounds came from.

"Everybody was just running around in circles," said Deputy Eddy Raymond Walters.

UNDENIABLY, the knoll area was widely searched by officers immediately after the shots. And what was found?

"There wasn't anything over there," said patrolman E. L. Smith.

"We didn't see anything there," said Deputy Luke Mooney who thought the shots came from the knoll.

John and Faye Chism, standing in front of the knoll, had looked around when they heard the shots. They saw no one.

Harold Elkins, another deputy, ran into Bowers in the railroad yard. Bowers said he had seen three out-of-state cars driving around the parking area behind the knoll just before the assassination. Two drove off before the shots. Lane mentions this. And the third? Lane leaves him near the knoll and leaves the reader to conjecture what the driver might or might not have done there.

"THE LAST I saw of him he was pausing just about in—just above the assassination site," Lane has this quote of Bowers. He does not have this one: "He left this area just about 12:25 P.M." The assassination occurred at 12:30 p.m.

Bowers also said he saw two men watching over the fence about the time of the shots, which arouses Lane's suspicions. Not, however, to the extent of mentioning Bowers saw "at least" one of them still there as police began fanning out over the area.

In any event, patrolman Charles Polk Player searched cars in the lot for two hours. He didn't report finding anything. Several hoboos found in freight cars were questioned. Seymour Weitzman found footprints "that didn't make sense because they were going different directions." Holland saw muddy footprints on a car bumper. Had an assassin stood there?

NO ONE had seen one. If he had, he had been able to gather up any shells from the ground in the brief time before police arrived because none was found. No rifle was found. Nothing ... nothing to add to what some people said they heard and saw around the knoll: some shots and a puff of smoke.

Two persons said they saw a rifle being fired from the sixth floor of the depository. One was Howard Brennan. To weaken the case for the critics to weaken Brennan's testimony. This they try to do.

Maurice Evans? As an Ape?

By GENE HANDSAKER
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Maurice Evans playing an ape?
The distinguished Shakespearean actor — renowned as Hamlet, Macbeth, Romeo and Falstaff — is playing a monkey in a new television movie, "Planet of the Apes," produced by 20th Century-Fox.

Charles Heston and other astronauts discover the weird civilization when their spaceship crash-lands on the planet.

THE DECISION whether to be or not to be a movie monkey was easy for Evans, 66, a performer-producer long acclaimed on both sides of the Atlantic.

The big Broadway theater, he noted in an interview, are filled with musicals. Invitations to play Shakespeare or Shaw come only occasionally on television.

"There is no further opportunity for an actor of my type to function as I did in the past," he said, "and I do not like to be idle.

"I took this part for spiritual reasons of keeping busy. Otherwise, you get slack, fat and lazy."

In recent months the New Yorker has also played a retired British general in four episodes of television's "Tarzan." In "Batman," he was a villain who cut the caped crusader loose in a balloon with the Shakespearean cry, "This is the unkindest cut of all!"

FOR "PLANET of the Apes" he is in the make-up chair from 6 to 9:30 a.m. Two men apply a latex rubber snout with spirit gum. It extends from brow to upper lip, sticking to his eyelids by exposing his blue eyes.

Some days there are nearly 100 ape actors on the set, a fact that has taxed Hollywood's makeup manpower. Noontime passersby gawk at them, feeding in their dressing rooms.

Next comes a rubber chinpiece, then hair applied in patches to his head and the backs of his hands. Finally, black polish on his fingernails.

The ape jaw contains a visible row of teeth in front of Evans' own. At lunch on cut-up steak, halibut or spaghetti, the food tends to lodge between the rows of teeth. Evans pries it loose with the chopsticks he uses to feed himself.

His drinks melt the rubber, so he sucks iced tea through a convalescent's bendable straw.

"You feel like the animals must feel in the zoo," said Evans.

Plans to Wed Surfer

HONOLULU (UP) — Folk-singer Buffy Sainte-Marie says she is going to marry a surfer she met on the beach at Kauai.

"He's really just exactly what I want, exactly what I need," said the doe-eyed singer of her boyfriend, DeWayne Bugbee. She described Bugbee, a 1965 graduate of Kailua High School, as a "surfer — and he rides horses and loves kids."

Conservative programming continued at Hollywood Bowl's second concert of the summer season Thursday night. Since the composers represented were Mozart and Richard Strauss, however, and since the manner of presentation was somewhat more polished than it had been Tuesday, it was not an unsatisfying evening.

Eugen Jochum conducted the second of his four Bowl events this year. Soloist was soprano Phyllis Curtin, who sang arias of Mozart and the last sixth of "Salome."

The purely orchestral portions of the program, the Overture to "The Magic Flute," Mozart's Symphony No. 40 and "Till Eulenspiegel," showed the Los Angeles Philharmonic on its better behavior.

Such transparency as they achieved in the Mozart items is rare indeed (for them, that is), and their easy and brilliant romp through the familiar hurdles of "Till" was cause for rejoicing.

Jochum, on the other hand, proved, once again, more of a technician than a philosopher. That is to say, while he elicited from the orchestra unusually clean and correct playing, he did not lead them to the deeper values in the score.

Wallenstein, conducting the same work, had an opposite reaction, due in some part, I suspect, to the quality of the Bowl's sound system (it is better in 1967 than it was in 1965). There was a tubby-sounding, almost piped-in, Mozart 40th. But at least the magic, the propulsiveness, the dramatic wholeness of the work, were present.

Phyllis Curtin, returning for her first Southland appearance since that beautiful recital she gave in Long Beach last fall, re-created the finale of "Salome" with musical authority, textural nuance and some of the roundest singing tones I have heard her make.

WITHOUT THE opera's first hour and a quarter to wear her out, and with the (vocal) advantage of the original text — as opposed to the translation used when she did a full-length "Salome" in the Pavilion two years ago — she was able to soar, vocally and musically. Jochum and the orchestra helped her greatly.

Her Mozart — "Dove sono," from "Nozze," "Come scoglio," from "Così," and the thrice-fa-

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — Lou Gottlieb, 43, former leader of the disbanded limelighter singing group, is scheduled to appear in municipal court Tuesday to enter his plea on misdemeanor charges of violating Sonoma County health and sanitation laws.

Gottlieb was arrested on charges of operating an illegal camp for hippies. He was freed on $276 bail.

County authorities claimed he ran his Morning Star Ranch, 12 miles west of town, for the benefit of a colony of hippies. They said sanitary facilities, particularly toilets, did not conform with state laws.

County Health Officer Dr. Walter Clowers reported the population varied from 40 persons during the week to nearly 100 on weekends.

SPOUSES MAKE LOUSY BRIDGE PARTNERS

Trumped by a Purse: Pow!

By MARK CLUTTER

The woman stood up and hit her bridge partner in the face with her heavy purse. He happened to be one of the nation's great players. He also happened to be her husband.

This incident, said Kelsey Petterson, chairman of the 19th annual Midsummer Contract Bridge Championships now in session in Lafayette Hotel, illustrates two facts of bridge psychology: It is an intensely competitive game, and spouses make bad partners.

"Bridge is an ethical game, and it is seldom that tempers get out of hand," Petterson said. "But there are disagreements. The tournament recorder — in this tournament, Samuel T. Block — interviews the parties and writes a report. "Husbands and wives almost always make bad partners. They often enjoy playing against each other."

Petterson went on to describe the people who make good bridge players. "The most important qualification is a good mind," he said. "It has nothing to do with class distinctions. There are multimillionaires who are wonderful players, but there are also jobless people. Lawyers seem to do very well, perhaps because it is an analytical game. Doctors also make good players. The game is very popular with Jews. About 30 per cent in the Los Angeles County organizations are Jewish."

Tournament play follows certain patterns. Gambling is forbidden — although there may be quiet little individual bets. Drinking is minimal because players want their wits at their sharpest. Good sportsmanship is both the rule and the custom.

Bridge is popular in Long Beach. A thousand of the 10,000 league players in the county play here.

PERSONS WITH a liking

for bridge have every opportunity to enjoy league play, Petterson said. "There are club meetings every night of the week, and both group and individual lessons are available."

The big event of the tournament is the Bixby Cup, donated by Grace Bixby. Play will go through Sunday.

Tables number 600 to 700. Marshal Ketchum is the tournament manager.

There are many outstanding players, among them Mary Jane Farrell, considered the leading woman player in the world, and Morris Portugal. Petterson has a successful record.

Murder Trial Location Ruling Angers Kirschke

Accused wife slayer Jack Kirschke angrily denounced a ruling by a Los Angeles Superior Court judge Friday which will place the onetime assistant district attorney on trial for his life in a Los Angeles courtroom on Aug. 14 instead of one in Long Beach.

Superior Court Judge Robert Feinerman denied a request by Kirschke's attorney, Albert C.S. Ramsey, that the trial be held in Long Beach. He also slapped down Ramsey's request that Kirschke be allowed to consult the law library in Los Angeles County Jail in preparation of his defense.

KIRSCHKE, ACCUSED of killing his wife and her boyfriend during a late night tryst at Kirschke's apartment, ridiculed the jurist's decision. He said that he had always understood that the basic purpose of creating branch courts (such as the one in Long Beach) was so that trials could be held without great inconvenience to witnesses. The ex-DA's aide said that of the 36 witnesses who testified in regard to his case before the grand jurors, many were from Long Beach.

The Los Angeles judge did more than merely reject the two Ramsey motions. The jurist also:

—Upbraided Kirschke's attorney for renewing the demand that the trial be held in Long Beach. The judge said that a major log jam would occur in Long Beach courts if the trial is held here.

—Outlined "additional" reasons for holding Kirschke's trial in Los Angeles. One was that Kirschke is acquainted with some of the Long Beach judges. Another was the publication of verbatim testimony before the Los Angeles County Grand Jury which, the judge decided, would prejudice any trial of Kirschke. The judge said that the publication of this testimony created a "climate" in which Kirschke could not obtain a fair trial. He didn't get around to explaining what he meant by "climate."

Kirschke, accused of slaying his wife Elaine, 43, and her boyfriend Orville William Drankhan, 41, in the Kirschke apartment at 185 Rivo Alto Canal, was in a jovial mood Friday. He chatted with his attorney and with his son, Douglas, 23, a recent graduate of Colorado State University.

Attorney Ramsey apparently isn't finished with making motions. He said Friday that "in a week or two" he will make motion for review of the Grand Jury indictment by the U.S. District Court of Appeals. Ramsey has contended all along that much of the evidence presented to the jurors was illegal and the indictment, therefore, unjustified.

$367,000 ALLOCATED

L.B. OKs City Promotion Fund

By DON BRACKENBURY

Expenditure of $367,500 in fiscal 1967-68 for advertising, promotion and public relations and $81,675 for community events and official entertainment was approved Friday by the City Council.

The $81,675 represented an increase of $11,375 over the amount recommended for the community events by City Manager John R. Mansell.

Councilmen increased the allocations for four community groups and added four new appropriations.

No action was taken on city financing for the International Beauty Pageant, because the officials of the organization had asked permission to appear before the council next week rather than Friday. Mansell has recommended an appropriation of $25,000.

The $392,500 recommended by Mansell for advertising and public relations, including the $25,000 for the IBC, will be financed from $179,744 from the city's general fund, $200,000 from the special city room tax and $12,756 surplus from last year.

COUNCILMEN approved inclusion in the budget of $210,000 for Long Beach Promotion, Inc., $125,000 for the Convention & Visitors' Bureau, $15,000 for the Tournament of Roses float, $10,000 for general public relations expense and $7,500 for publications and brochures.

In voting on allocations for community events, councilmen added to Mansell's recommendations $5,000 for new uniforms for Marvin Marker's Junior Concert Band, $1,500 for transportation for the Long Beach 49er Track Team, $750 to help the Independent Business Men's Association stage the White Hat Award Dinner in September and $575 to the Fleet Reserve Association for transportation for its youth drum and bugle corps.

INCREASE in recommended appropriations included: a $250 raise to $1,000 for the Southwest Youth Music Festival, a $300 raise to $2,100 for the All States Society, a $2,500 raise to $5,000 for the Long Beach Mounted Police and a $500 raise to $2,500 for the Flying Wheels, disabled veterans' basketball team.

The council turned down a request of Long Beach Civic Light Opera to raise its appropriation from $10,000 to $15,000 and denied a request from the Long Beach Art Association that it be given $5,000.

It rejected an appeal from James E. Son that the $1,500 recommended for his Youth Band be increased by $1,000.

Next major council action on the 1967-68 budget will come Monday when councilmen open hearings at 9 a.m. on salary increases for city employees.

DIRECTOR PAUL SPRINGS . . . A Teacher in "How to Get Along"

Camp Gonzalez Tries to Make Men of Boys

By DON KIRKLAND

In the chow hall during lunch break, the conversation among the 97 blue-denimed teen-agers runs the gamut from surfing to a stubborn brush fire they fought the night before.

They are clean and neat and polite. The influence of exercise and a kind of Spartan discipline shows itself in body and demeanor.

IN A SENSE, THIS IS A PLACE that makes men out of boys.

It is Camp David Gonzalez, one of five senior forestry camps operated by the Los Angeles County Probation Department. The teen-agers are those who have, in one way or another, run afoul of the law and have been ordered to camp for rehabilitation.

Paul Springs, a 19-year veteran of the probation service, directs the 13-man crew that runs Camp Gonzalez. He opened the facility in 1962, and has been its director almost ever since.

In the quiet, fenceless setting, Springs and his staff have less than 36 weeks to accomplish a task that likely has not been accomplished in the 15 to 17 years of a boy's lifetime. They must remold, reshape and reorient the rebellious, the withdrawn, the misguided youth.

"TO DO THIS," SPRINGS RELATES, "we create a stable environment in which growth can occur. We provide these boys with an avenue to ventilate their feelings and emotions; mainly, we teach them a vital lesson: how to get along with 96 other guys."

On 6½ acres in the heavily wooded Malibu Canyon, the sprawling campgrounds bask in sunlight. The buildings are new, the dormitory clean and functional, the classrooms bright. To Springs, the very nature of the grounds has a therapeutic impact.

THIS FORMULA MUST WORK. Of the teen-agers assigned to Camp Gonzalez, only two or three a month choose to walk through the open gate and "escape." Another two or three a month find they cannot accustom themselves to camp life, and must be reassigned to other types of placements, or returned home.

One boy, incorrigible at home, talks candidly of his stay at Camp Gonzalez:

"I guess you'd say I've learned a lesson — how to get along with other people." He has been at camp for 20 weeks and is assigned to the C-1 crew, the one charged with responsibility for camp maintenance.

Others, including those whose behavior has failed to meet the rigid standards, draw tougher jobs.

All are on fire-call. In the dry summer months, teen-age forestry crews are kept hopping. They work shoulder-to-shoulder with paid firemen in fighting brush and forest-area flare-ups. Says Springs, "They have an outstanding record. They work better, harder and more enthusiastically than many of the adult camp crews. In fact, we usually have to make sure they don't overdo it."

Long Beach Aviatix Set for 12th Powderpuff Derby

Long Beach's Frances Bera — who has already placed in 11 of the annual events — is flying again today in the 12th Powderpuff Derby all-woman air race.

Already holding seven firsts, three seconds and a third place, she was among 142 pilots scheduled to take off from Atlantic City at 9 a.m. Eastern time and this year is flying a Mooney.

Flying only in daylight hours and in good weather, the contestants are expected to reach the finish point at Torrance Municipal Airport by sundown Tuesday.

Fran, who has logged more than 16,000 hours in the air, says "part skill, speed, and luck" go into winning a derby.

WINNERS, who will be judged on a basis of handicaps assigned each make and model of aircraft, will split $3,000 in prize money and several trophies.

Meanwhile, Torrance is launching a week-long salute to the contestants, which will include a sweepstakes in which the public is given a chance to pick winners.

Among social events scheduled are a reception at 2:30 p.m. Thursday for the fliers at the Del Amo Shopping Center, where a number of displays are on exhibit, luncheons and an awards banquet at the airport Marina Hotel at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Two appointments to Long Beach Promotion, Inc., were announced Friday by John Dickson, manager.

Lloyd G. Hearn was named news bureau director. Hearn was public relations manager of McCulloch Corp. of Los Angeles for 2½ years. Prior to that he was public relations director of the Los Angeles Central City Association. He is a graduate of USC.

Tom Witherspoon was named photographic director. He was formerly in the public relations department of General Telephone Co. He served 23 years in the Marine Corps, retiring as a lieutenant colonel.

Gas Explosion Shatters Glass, Youths Injured

Two youths received slight injuries and several plate glass windows were shattered in a gasoline explosion at a car wash in Bellflower Friday.

Sheriff's deputies said John Berabino, 15, of 1792 Mockingbird Place, Orange, and Gary Price, 20, of 10324 Imperial Highway, Lynwood, put gasoline-soaked rags in a washing machine which blew up at Econo-Wash, 9202 Alondra Blvd.

THE SKIPPER'S family is delighted to have dad home. The USS Bainbridge's commanding officer, Capt. James H. Doyle Jr., is all smiles as wife, Jeanette, Ann, 11, Jim III, 15, and Cathy, 18, are happy, too, about pop's return from a rugged eight-month deployment off Vietnam.

A-Ship Bainbridge Back From Battle

By BUCK LANIER
Navy Editor

"A vital and significant contribution to the strike force mission . . . a magnificent deployment . . . protection for the world's largest warship . . . terrific liberty in Freemantle, Australia . . . a speed mark of 29.2 knots (33½ miles an hour) on the 3,673 miles from Freemantle to Subic Bay, Philippines . . ."

The skipper of the nuclear powered missile frigate USS Bainbridge noted those were just some of the high points of his ship's eight-month deployment off Vietnam.

CAPT. JAMES H. DOYLE JR., brought Bainbridge into Long Beach Naval Station Friday morning to a musical and joyous welcome for the 450-man crew.

All crewmen knew that the attack carrier USS Enterprise could not have accomplished her role of 11,000 sorties and 14,000 tons of bombs dropped on North Vietnam targets if Bainbridge had not been screening for her.

This nuclear "heavy" needs the standoff capability of Bainbridge's antisubmarine rockets (ASROC) to provide her supreme protection against enemy subs.

Bainbridge's ASROC can kill at long range—40,000 yards. And her sonar is good at that distance, too.

Bainbridge also patrolled the South China Sea as an aircraft picket ship, search and rescue unit and also served as an escort for conventional powered carriers.

"It was bothersome for us to have to wait while these ships had to be refueled," Yeoman 2.C. Bill Kietzer, Tampa, Fla., said.

USS BAINBRIDGE Yeoman Seaman Jack Snyder was among the first of the ship's sailors to greet his wife, Michele, Friday as the ship returned from Vietnam deployment. Michele flew down from the couple's Sacramento home for the homecoming and was one of the first wives aboard.

Kietzer said the sailors "guessed" they were going to Australia when Capt. Doyle appeared in an Aussie "digger" hat and a band started playing "Waltzing Matilda" as the ship pulled out of Subic.

Most Lutheran Pastors OK Talks With Catholics

By LES RODNEY

Discussions between Lutheran and Roman Catholic scholars on the occasion of the 450th anniversary of the Reformation are a welcome development to most Lutheran ministers, a survey this week disclosed.

A sampling of Long Beach-area Lutheran pastors evoked reactions ranging from enthusiastic endorsement looking toward eventual reunion of the Christian family, through qualified approval with a "let's wait and see" tinge, to one strong vote of disapproval.

Invitation for the series of three-day talks which will take place this fall in 14 cities across the country was extended by the Lutheran Reformation Anniversary Committee, and accepted by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops.

All three major branches of American Lutheranism will be involved.

Though there have been sporadic "dialogues" between Lutherans and Catholics in the increasingly friendly atmosphere since the Vatican Councils, the scheduled discussions are seen as of deeper significance than any contacts to date.

The very fact of the talks being held in the dramatic context of Martin Luther's historic dissent, which led to the Protestant breakaway from Rome, places them at the center of Christianity's major theological differences. And the national scope of the endeavor lifts Lutheran-Catholic communications in the U.S. to a new level, almost unthinkable even a decade ago.

Southern California is not one of the 14 areas selected for the discussions. Cities named were Austin (Tex.), Atlanta, Baltimore, Boston, Chicago, Columbus (Ohio), Denver, Detroit, Minneapolis-St. Paul, New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis, San Francisco and Seattle.

Some Southland talks, however, are not necessarily excluded. The joint statement announcing the dialogue this week encourages "our Roman Catholic and Lutheran clergy and laity under the direction of local authorities to plan and conduct similar dialogues in their local communities."

EUB Church Welcomes New Pastor

Burns Memorial Evangelical United Brethren Church at 17th Street and Temple Avenue has welcomed its new pastor, Rev. Wendell W. Jones, who replaces the departing Rev. Alexander McCandless.

A native of nearby Lomita and graduate of Narbonne High School, Rev. Jones served with the 34th Infantry Regiment in the Pacific during World War II. He graduated from UCLA and Fuller Theological Seminary.

While attending seminary he was granted a license to preach by the California EUB, and under direction of the late Bishop Ira Warner, helped found a mission church in La Puente. He then served six years at the Norwalk church, where his wife Virginia, an accomplished pianist and organist, was choir director.

The Jones family, including two boys who will attend Wilson High and a girl who will attend Jefferson Junior High, will be welcomed Sunday after morning service at a potluck dinner.

See Value in Reformation Anniversary Dialogue

Here are reactions of Lutheran pastors who were queried by the Independent Press-Telegram:

'Heartily in Favor'

GEORGE S. NORMAN, Mount Olivet Lutheran, Lakewood

When we have dialogue with anyone, we know this tends to improve our chance of understanding each other. When we start from a basic oneness in Christ, as in these talks, we have a firm footing for our explorations. Martin Luther never wanted separation from the church, he wanted to purge from it our man-made dogma which was contrary to Scripture. In this he received no support from the church hierarchy. With this in mind, the present day Romans and Lutherans are in a better position to accomplish this aim, since there is impetus on both sides to bring understanding. So I am heartily in favor of these dialogues.

'Might Surprise Ourselves'

EDWARD A. SHELDON, St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran

One of the things that hurts all the time is the fragmentation of the church. Of course, there are many historical reasons to account for this. But basically, the Christian churches are one, and while I do not feel that it is absolutely necessary that they be one in organization, nevertheless it would be a very sad thing for the Christian church if we could not have dialogue, and find common bases. I am very happy to see that we will have dialogue. We might surprise ourselves and find much in common.

'If Responsibility to Scripture...'

GERHARD L. BELGIUM, St. Timothy Lutheran, Lakewood

My reaction is positive though qualified. Interfaith dialogues can be either a breakthrough leading to genuine Christian unity, or games theologians play to be ecumenically "in." If expectancy rules, if the talks bypass the Word of God, and if the Gospel gets lost in mere cordiality, then there's no gain.

But if there is responsibility to Scripture we could move toward a new Reformation which all denominations, including the Lutherans and the Roman, badly need. I applaud the grass roots nature of the conversations, and hope that not only professional ecumenists will be in on them.

'No Valid Reason Left Not to Talk'

A. E. COX, St. Stephen's Lutheran

I don't really believe church officials any longer have any choices other than going ahead as rapidly as possible in the direction of one church movement. When all is said and done, we are getting to the place where the church can no longer think of any more good reasons for NOT talking. Once we set down the qualifications, and state that this is what our faith demands of us, and we can go no further, the layman stands up and asks what are we going to DO.

Doctrine means less than one unified Holy Catholic Church. The average person realizes that the one head of the church is Jesus Christ and there is no longer any valid reason for separation. Personally, I see very little problem with having one spokesman for the Christian church. I think most people in the forefront of the ecumenical movement would agree that the Pope is the most logical one to be that voice.

'Refreshing Manifestation'

CLIFFORD HOLLAND, Redeemer Lutheran of Lelsure World

While these talks will not solve the divisions that have existed over 450 years, they are a refreshing manifestation of Christian brotherhood. Incidentally, this spirit finds expression not only on the top level, but in the grass roots. Just this week, our own church council completed arrangements for the use of our spacious fellowship hall by the local Catholic woman's organization.

'Compromise of Truth Is Evil'

ORVAL A. AWERKAMP, Trinity Lutheran

Today, and ever since the day of Pentecost, there has been but one church. Nowhere in Scripture do we find reference to other than the One Church, the Body, the Bride of Christ. Christ does not have two bodies or brides. The test of the church is whether or not it, the member of the Body, is anchored and controlled by the Head—Christ. To suggest there must be unity in denominational names is as senseless as to suggest all in the body must be either eyes or hands. When we see that there is but "one Lord, one Faith, one Baptism," we will recognize the unity of the church consists in its oneness in Him, and not in some name over the door.

On the other hand, consolidation means compromise, and compromise of truth is evil. One of two alternatives must take place in the final analysis. Either we must give up some of our conscientious convictions, or we aim to form a monstrosity-church in which you can believe anything. Are we willing to pay this price for bigness? Or, in one big church, are we suggesting the "free-wheeling" pentecostals just submit to formality? Are we trying to destroy a rose garden of assorted beauty for a garden of but one brand of rose?

Why does the church struggle to give up or circumvent its liberty and freedom for domination and regimentation, which happens every time there is consolidation? Why consolidate when it but lays the ground for another "Reformation?" If we are truly interested and sincerely seek unity within the nominal Christian Church, let it start with our getting together in a world council to correct doctrine tainted with traditions of men, a conference which sincerely aims at establishing the pre-eminence and centrality of Christ as the true glory of the church. Here is fundamental unity rather than prideful grandeur and bigness.

The Reformers fought and many died to restore to us the liberty lost in the early church's consolidation. Are we ready to send them back to the fires they once braved?

'Added Incentive'

VIRGIL F. BJERKE, Our Saviour's Lutheran

The anniversary is a milepost that provides added incentive for congregations to review their past and to rearrange their stance for a more effective proclamation of the Gospel today and tomorrow. It is an occasion to give thanks for our heritage, but also to renew our efforts in being the servant church. That our Lord Jesus Christ asks of all Christians. It is our hope that this anniversary will result in a warmer handclasp with other Christian fellowships.

CONFIDENT LIVING

You Can Conquer Failure Complex

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

It is amazing how some people insist on failing in life. I have seen many cases of perfectly competent people who got some compulsive failure complex and rode it to just that — failure. They did not understand why they were that way, and other people were against that anyone with potential ability could throw it away.

There was such a man in Nebraska. His wife was puzzled and almost beside herself. Her husband's ability was such that his business was, as she put it, "like an airplane ready to take off and fly. But just when everything is going good he does something that takes all the altitude out of it. And," she added, "he is far from dumb, but he does things so stupid that it almost gives the appearance of being deliberate."

As a matter of fact, the so-called dumb things that he did were deliberate, unconsciously deliberate. When a person has a deep inner feeling of failure, but begins to succeed, the profound failure feeling sometimes does everything possible to protect itself and prevent potential success. Its method of operation is the employment of irrational actions designed to nip success and induce failure results.

GOING INTO this case we found that this man's father had been forced to be a farmer, when actually he had wanted to be an educator. This made him a bitter spirit-broken person, and the son grew up in this atmosphere. The father noted in his son those sensitive quick-minded characteristics which made him a replica of himself. And by some device, shall I say devilish, quirk of mind he also saw in the boy a rival who could be what he himself had wanted to be and he determined to break him. This was, of course, an unconscious attitude not admitted rationally.

Indeed now and then he actually showed a bit of love for his son. But he sneered at the boy, calling him "stupid," "clumsy,"

"inept" — and since the boy was "dumb" it was a waste of time and money to send him to college. He was good only to be a handyman around the farm and not too handy at that. This emotionally sick father drove into the boy's consciousness a certainty that he would be a failure. So deeply imbedded was this conviction that, long after his father's death, and in a business of his own — one that had every potential — he often revealed the destructive ineptness that he had been assured he possessed.

When we acquainted this man with the curious psychological mechanism so long dominant in his mind he began for the first time to understand himself. And also he had a new understanding of his father that developed into compassion for a man who had suffered so acutely from emotional ill health. We taught him to view his father not as a father but as a pathetic and unhappy human being. Then came forgiveness of his conflicted parent. No sooner had the forgiveness been expressed than peace came to his mind.

"YOUR FATHER wanted to succeed but failed so I suggest that you get busy and succeed — succeed for your father as well as for yourself. Maybe somewhere in the afterlife the unhappy man will be at peace and take pride in you."

Tears welled up in his eyes. "That is what I always wanted — my father to be proud of me."

"He was not really a cruel man," I said, "only a mixed-up, terribly unhappy person. But that is now in the past if you will leave it there."

Well, he did leave it there and went on to achieve the success of which he was eminently capable. Naturally the psychological wounds of a lifetime did not heal instantly but the twin factors of self-understanding and compassionate forgiveness eventually cured this man of inflicting failure upon himself.

TWIN TALENTS

Dwight and Dwayne Good, identical twins who have been featured artists on the Armed Forces radio network, and are recording stars, will present a concert of sacred music Sunday, 7:30 p.m. in Christ Presbyterian Church, 5225 N. Hayter Ave., Lakewood. Both are ordained ministers.

The Bible 'Straight' in KGER Series

As a service to those who want to hear the Bible but are unable to read it themselves, due to failing eyesight or health reasons, radio station KGER has inaugurated a new feature on Sundays.

At five minutes to six, the Gospel of John is read in five minute weekly installments, without comment or interpretation (or appeal for funds.)

The Bible used is the new translation acceptable to both Catholics and Protestants, referred to in the May Readers Digest as an excellent translation for all.

Pain in Spain Falls Mainly on Protestants

United Press International

Protestant leaders in Spain and in the United States are deeply disappointed with a new "religious liberty" law enacted by the Spanish parliament.

The law starts out fine, Protestants say. Its opening article declares:

"The Spanish state recognizes the right of religious liberty as founded on the dignity of the human person, and insures the necessary protection in providing immunity against any coercion in the legitimate exercise of this right."

But this apparently sweeping guarantee is followed by 40 additional articles which impose specific limitations and restrictions on Protestant religious groups.

Among other things, Protestant groups must submit lists of their members to the government's Ministry of Justice each year. Their financial records must be kept open for government inspection. Their places of worship must be approved by the state, and permission to hold religious services outside of these approved sites must be requested in advance from the government authorities.

None of these rules apply to Catholics.

Dr. Josef Nordenhaug, general secretary of the Baptist World Alliance, said that the new law was a sharp let-down for Protestants who had been persuaded, by public statements from Generalissimo Francisco Franco and other Spanish leaders, to hope for real religious liberty in Spain.

In Madrid, Protestant Pastor Jose Cardona said: "I am very disillusioned. The Spanish bishops have done nothing to promote the cause of genuine religious freedom."

Minister to Hippies Will Speak Sunday

Rev. J. Paul Bruton, who had been on special assignment in San Francisco ministering to the hippies, and recently completed a film on the youth cult, will be featured speaker Sunday at both the morning and evening services of Guiding Light Tabernacle, 2094 Cherry Ave.

Rev. Bruton, former pastor of Long Beach Assembly of God, spent 10 years in Africa prior to his Haight-Ashbury mission. In conjunction with his morning topic, the film "Out of the Darkness," which has been shown of TV, will be presented. The evening talk, "Fly Now, Pay Later," relates God's word to the hippie situation.

Pastor of Guiding Light is Edgar W. Phillips, nephew of the founder and long-time pastor Herschel S. Phillips, who died of a heart attack in the pulpit Easter Sunday. The new pastor comes from Kansas City to fill the vacancy. He attended Central Bible College and Midwest Baptist Theological School, and founded a church at Blue Springs, Mo. He has moved to Long Beach with his wife Sandy and three sons.

FROM THE PULPIT

Soon now you will see the construction of our new auditorium on Clark Street get under way. We are planning a 1500 seat Southern Colonial Auditorium that will be a real asset to the ministry of Calvary as well as a material contribution to the architecture of our great city.

Many of our local businessmen have paid high compliments to us in the progress of our ministry. We believe that the Lord's business is the greatest business in the world, and His affairs should be conducted accordingly.

At Calvary you will find the best in musical programs in our services. You will find youth workers who are dedicated unto God for this purpose. Our church staff would like the opportunity to talk to you about the most important thing in the world — your soul.

We would welcome you to our service and to private consultation sessions. Why not call us for an appointment, and attend our services if you have a spiritual hunger.

Come to Calvary! Calvary is for you!

30 YOUTH OFF ON LOS ALTOS METHODIST X-COUNTRY BUS TOUR

Thirty-four young people and four adult counselors take off at 3 p.m. today from Los Altos Methodist Church on a bus tour which will give them a panoramic look at the country, the church at work and some of the nation's traditions and problems by the time they return in four weeks.

Sponsored by the local church, the trip will place emphasis on a study of civil rights and poverty along with the sight-seeing, which includes a whirlwind dip across the frontier to see Montreal's Expo 67.

Supervising adults are Los Altos Methodist's minister of youth and education, Rev. John Gattis, and three church members.

Purpose of the tour is stated as becoming "more aware of the relationship of the Christian faith to our world today, and to deepen our commitment to God."

Some of the stops are Farmington, N.M., to visit the Navajo mission, Chicago, Detroit, Boston, New York, Washington, D.C., Frakes, Ky., Nashville, Jackson, Miss, and El Paso.

On the agenda are a Broadway play, visits with national international church organizations, seminars with government officials, visits with Cong. Hosmer and Sen. Kuchel, and talks with workers of the Delta Ministry in Mississippi, which aids poor Negro tenant farmers.

Four exchange students are included on the tour — from Japan, Germany, Brazil and Norway.

Car washes and a fashion show were among the means employed to raise money for the trip.

'COLLEGIANS' IN WILMINGTON

The Collegians, versatile musical group from Southern California College in Costa Mesa, will be featured Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in First Assembly of God Church of Wilmington, 24919 Avalon Blvd. They will present a wide variety of gospel music in a style which has been termed unique. Joseph B. Prettyman, professor of music, travels with The Collegians and will speak at the service.

BRIEFLY

Empathy, Baptist Stance, a Church and Head Start

Do you know the important difference between sympathy and empathy? A Southland Methodist minister, Dr. Randall C. Phillips, wrote this fine explanation, which was reprinted in the First Methodist Church weekly.

"To have sympathy is to feel for someone; to have empathy is to feel with someone. This latter word I hope you will add to your vocabulary. Empathy grows in meaning as you seek to put yourself in the other person's hurts, tensions, frustrations as well as joys: Yes, to have empathy is risky and there is no guaranteed protection from stabbing hurt; but the opposite is to be a hardened, insensitive personality that never comes alive to the great joys of living because of refusal to be involved with others. The old Indian adage is a good one: 'Never judge a man until you have walked in his moccasins on the trail of life.' Practice empathy to understand what Christianity is all about."

SOUTHERN BAPTIST

COMMUNITY NLB VESPER SERVICE

The baseball stands at Houghton Park will respond to an old fashioned hymn sing Sunday evening as part of a unique Union Vesper Service in which five Protestant denominations of North Long Beach will cooperate.

The sing at 7 p.m. will open an hour-long service which includes an evening prayer and a meditation.

Purpose of the service, first to be held in a Long Beach city park, was described as reaching out into the community with a stronger, more united Christian witness. All are invited.

Participating ministers are Revs. Otto Kliever of Calvary Baptist, Richard Irving of Community Presbyterian, C. Thomas Stockton of North Long Beach Christian, Fred Masted of Bethel Lutheran, Joe Read of Bixby Knolls Christian, and delivering the meditation, B. J. Usher, North Long Beach Methodist.

regional papers express varying shades of interpretation of a new emphasis on social concerns at the Miami Beach convention of the nation's largest single Protestant denomination, traditionally conservative and aloof from church involvement with Caesar's realm.

The Baptist Record of Mississippi, hitting at "social action," said the convention turned back to the old gospel emphasis and that "Southern Baptists are not turning from their major emphasis, but simply are hearing calls for better implementation of it."

The Colorado Rocky Mountain Baptist saw the "present day, so-called 'social action' emphasis as nothing more or less than the 'social gospel' fostered by religionists of a generation ago."

The District of Columbia Capital Baptist, predicting the above reaction, sharply disagreed. "There will be those who will cry social gospel. Let them cry. The world is moving too fast to even sit down and debate with these. Southern Baptists put their hand to the plow — there can be no turning back." It said that it was at this convention that Southern Baptists discovered and began to talk about "the daily issues of life, poverty, birth control, war, peace."

The California Southern Baptist offered this note of perspective: "Southern Baptists are coupling a growing social awareness to their strong evangelistic emphasis. They may yet demonstrate that the relationship between social responsibility and evangelistic activity is not an either-or but a both-and. . . there is no evidence at all that Baptists will lessen their emphasis on evangelism but there is a good reason to believe they will be taking more interest in society."

One question on which the messengers (delegates) left no doubt of their feelings was Vietnam. As the Georgia Christian Index put it: "The hawks were in the decided majority."

COVENANT Presbyterian's church session voted to host pre-school age children from the central area (mostly Negro boys and girls) as part of the Head Start program. Head Start is aimed to reduce some of the disadvantages with which youngsters from poorer areas start school. Charles Young, the lead teacher, in a letter to Covenant, expressed thanks for "the wonderful members and friends of this church," citing in particular six women who did much to make the sessions a success. The pastor, Dr. H. David Burcham, wrote the following about it to his congregation:

"I want the congregation to know that I am proud of this church for undertaking this kind of activity. It is very tangible evidence that, motivated by the Christian spirit, we want to do something meaningful toward the lifting of human life in this community."

"It is true that there will be some inconveniences to our more traditional patterns. It may be that some of us would prefer to use one of the rooms being used by Head Start for something we would like to do, and find it necessary to take a second best choice. It may be that the little kiddies at their play are a little noisy at times. But I covet for each of you the deep satisfaction of standing for a few moments, as I have, and watching these boys and girls at play and in their classroom. There is a pretty deep feeling of joy that comes to me with the realization that, by our cooperation in this really easy way for us, we are helping these children to bridge the cultural gap, making it more possible for them to move into their regular school work without a built-in handicap."

I cannot think of a more telling re-enactment in our times of the spirit our Lord commended in these unforgettable words: "Inasmuch as you have done it . . . unto one of the least of these, you have done it unto me."

"Sometimes, this kind of 'cup of cold water' gesture, with no formal 'religious' words even being uttered, proves to be, in the long haul, the most effective kind of evangelism that there is. My prayer is that we may, in time, find the way to increase our participation in this sort of activity, stimulated to it by simply a loving concern for people who need someone's help. The Lord, in His own ways, will bring blessing upon blessing for such service."

BOOKS Important New Work on Life of Jesus

By FOREST JORDAN

THE LIFE OF JESUS by Marcello Caveri. Grove Press, $7.95.

In the western world, made up of 95 per cent nominal Christians who pay lip service to their religion but find no firm basis for religious faith in a scientific age, Dr. Caveri's study of the life of Jesus may well bring new insights into the layman's analysis of his views of Jesus and in his teachings.

Joining a long list of books by the same title is this controversial product of 15 years of scholarship by Dr. Caveri, a linguist, former newspaper editor and presently teacher of Italian and Latin literature at Turin.

Dr. Caveri has undertaken as he says, to present the history of the life of Jesus, of his teaching, of the development of Christianity with the intention of "remaining as impartial as possible toward the often contradictory approaches of the various schools."

His aim is to present Jesus as an individual born into a clearly defined society at a clearly defined point in history and to strive to understand his life, his ideas, his behavior as the product of a particular culture and unique historical circumstances.

DRAWING upon numerous studies, some quite recent, Dr. Caveri presents a picture of the history and customs of the Hebrew people in the period of the New Testament to show Christianity's beginnings in a setting of contemporary religious fervor.

He takes the Gospels, of course, as the basic source for his study. He sifts the canonical and apocryphal gospels and the often opposing ideas of Paul of Tarsus. The writer attempts to separate the many layers that have been added over the centuries through what he terms zealous interpretation, adaption and correction of the message of Jesus in conformance with, as he says, the changes that occurred as the organization of the church progressed.

Craveri takes issue with the thesis of the rationalists that most of the Gospel narrative is a distortion of everyday, prosaic facts into miracles and supernatural events, either through the ingenious credulity of the writers, or, worse, through their deliberate efforts to deceive. He is more sympathetic to the German school which believes the Gospel authors presented myths and doctrines in the form of realistic accounts as was the manner of written and spoken word in their day. In this way, he believes, these early writers sought to present the precepts of Jesus' thought.

Dr. Caveri uses his knowledge of Latin, Greek, Hebrew and Aramaic to present what he offers as occasional errors in quotation, interpretation and translation that nevertheless are the bases of beliefs taught by the church, and even of major points of doctrine.

His scaffolding of scholarship is unobtrusive as he guides the reader through a labyrinth of Gospel, apocrypha, Catholic dogma, Jewish tradition and Protestant theology and present historical linguistic, anthropological and archeological findings and social and political history.

He does not hesitate to draw some conclusions, and one would expect him to. But they are fairly well based upon an edifice of factual matter. For instance, on the issue of the immaculate conception: "The virginity of Mary is a religious belief, not a historical fact for which proofs must be adduced. Furthermore, it is a belief that does not go back to the time of Jesus, and, therefore it can be disregarded by those who concern themselves with the historical, rather than the legendary, reconstruction of the life of Jesus, himself."

ON JESUS' criticism of the Pharisees' rigid formalism: "Jesus was determined to drive arid conformity out of men's hearts and to make them understand the importance of good works, motivated by love. But, little by little, official Christianity has lapsed back again to Pharisaism. It has absorbed the whole exterior of Jewish worship with its diverse precepts for the observance of holy days, its fasts, its abstinences, the abstention from certain foods and all the picturesque variety of extravagance of rites and ceremonials that in the Gospels were so harshly condemned."

As one would expect, Dr. Craveri has stirred up considerable criticism in his native Italy — a bastion of Catholicism. There has been praise, too, praise from theologians inside and outside his country.

Craveri's work is being translated in all the major languages of the world and is sure to brew a widening storm of controversy. In his forward he states his hope that he has contributed a foundation for others to carry on. In that he seems to have succeeded and an excellent translation brings his readable style through to the reader in clear, concise language that the layman can appreciate. . . .

Women's Theme Told

The annual observance of Woman's Day will be held Sunday at 10:45 a.m. services at East Side Christian Church, 874 Bisco Ave. The day's theme, used nationally by the Christian Women's Fellowship, is "Thy Paths — Our Chosen Way," and will be the topic for Mrs. Paul W. McBride.

Mrs. McBride, wife of the recently appointed pastor of the host church, is a former teacher of speech and English, was president of the Oklahoma Christian Ministers Wives Assn. and wrote a weekly church column for many years in that state.

"The church must be more than a steeple pointing upward as a silent sentinel in the sky," she will say. "It must be an active force in the decisions of men and nations."

Music will be presented by the mother-daughter team of Mrs. Harold Clark Sr. and Ellen.

Dodgers Still Receiving Lefthanded Compliments

By GEORGE LEDERER

Staff Writer
SAN FRANCISCO — Compliments have been few and far between for the Dodgers this season. Even the complimentary tickets are going slower than usual. Most of the compliments have been lefthanded and they continued to pour in Friday night as the Giants edged the Dodgers, 2-1. Lefthander Ray Sadecki was the winning pitcher. He has been the winning pitcher three times in five starts, which is unusual for Sadecki. It is common however, for lefthanders, any lefthander, to beat the Dodgers. They have lost seven in a row to lefthanded starters since Billy O'Dell of the Pirates failed at Dodger Stadium on June 3. Lefty starters now have a 14-4 record against the Dodgers and southpaw relievers have a 5-2 edge. "I wish I knew the reason," says Walter Alston, who has convinced that the Dodgers had improved their punch against lefty pitching this season. Actually, the Dodgers have a better average against lefthanders, .250 to .230, but this only deepens the mystery. Sadecki (3-0) needed help from righthander Frank Linzy, who recorded his 10th save, and had even more help from another righthander. This came from Jim Hart, whose 12th homer after a walk to Ty

Cline in the sixth inning, produced the margin of victory. Hart also had two infield hits to account for three-fifths of the Giant attack against loser Bill Singer (2-4). The Dodgers matched the Giants' meager offense. They also had a home run and two hits in only one inning. Unfortunately, the two came in the wrong order. Jeff Torborg, filling in for the injured John Roseboro, homered with two out in the seventh, Nate Oliver followed with an infield hit and Bob Bailey struck out as a pinch-hitter for Singer to end the inning. In the short run, mistakes again were costly to the Dodgers, who lost for the sixth time in the last eight games. The big one was a base-running mistake by Al Ferrara, which prevented the Dodgers from scoring first. With one out in the fourth inning, Jim Lefebvre drew a walk and Ferrara followed with a single, which was the first hit off Sadecki. Lefebvre was on his way to third and Ferrara was halfway to second as shortstop Hal Lanier cut off the throw from right fielder Ollie Brown. Lanier bluffed a throw to third, caught Ferrara leaning the wrong way and threw him out as

Angels Sight Second After Twin Bill Sweep

By ROSS NEWHAUW

The Angels, baby, are out of sight. They swept the A's 7-2 and 8-2 Friday night to advance to within two and one-half games of second place. This time the catalyst was Rick Reichardt, who is no longer out of sight. Rick finally put on the glasses which were prescribed six weeks ago and what followed was a "spectacular." Reichardt rapped three hits in the opener, including his 10th and 11th home runs, smashed a two-run single in the nightcap and fielded flawlessly for 18 innings. With Rick beginning to see the light, the Angels remained in the American League spotlight, making it 8-3 on the home stand and 23-8 over the last four weeks. While Reichardt wore his glasses, other glasses were lifted in toast to Roger Repoz, who slashed two doubles and a single in the nightcap; Paul Schaaf and Don Mincher, who homered in the opener, and Jim McGlothlin, whose eighth victory was also his eighth complete game. It was a big night at the Big A and Reichardt's biggest night of the season. He drove in five runs and the .238 batting average didn't appear quite so bad even if you were looking at it through glasses. "I had nothing to lose," said Rick. "My average couldn't get much worse

"I simply couldn't see the ball in the outfield," he admitted. "Also, I haven't been able to distinguish between a breaking pitch and a fast ball. If you can't do that, you might as well give up." Instead, Rick gave in to the astigmatism which is a by-product of last season's battle with high blood pressure and the kidney malfunction. "I put on the glasses for batting practice," he said. "I had some great rips and so I decided to wear them in the game. "Both of the pitches I hit out were good pitches. I'm not convinced that the glasses are the answer, but I certainly picked up the ball better. "I felt comfortable and they were of considerable help in the outfield." Thus, on a clear night, Reichardt and the Angels could see forever or, at least first place which is a slim six-game jump. It was Schaaf who got the party jumping with his sixth home run in the first inning of the opener. Reichardt belted his 10th in the fifth and then the Angels crushed Paul Linblad (4-3) under five runs in the sixth. Mincher, who himself credits eye exercises for his eye-popping statistics, bombed a three-run homer, his 14th, equalling his total as a Twin last season. Rick

'Hometown Hero' Billie Jean's Last Hurdle to Crown

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—A million British mums put their hopes and na'pennies today on Ann Jones, a hometown girl they desperately wanted to dethrone Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., as Wimbledon women's champion. The smart money, though, was solidly behind the efficient, precise Billie Jean on this final day of the 81st all England tennis championships. Bookies installed her as 2-0 betting favorite and gave 3-1 odds on Mrs. Jones.

John Newcombe of Australia, the third seed, easily captured the men's title Friday by beating unseeded Wilhelm Bungert of West Germany, 6-3, 6-1, 6-1, in 70 minutes. Mrs. King, the top-ranking amateur in the United States, plowed through her previous opponents in good stride and appeared at the top of her game for today's match. However, Mrs. Jones' first appearance in the finals, after six times reaching the semi-final round, was enough to drive the price of precious center court seats up from 27 shillings ($3.80) to eight pounds ($22.40). So high was interest in the match that fans began lining up early Friday for limited free standing space around the center court. Mrs. King, 23, took the title last year from Maria Bueno of Brazil and this year moved to the final in four matches—plus a forfeit win—without dropping a set. Mrs. Jones, 28, beat three Americans en route to the final, but was extended to the third set in three of her six matches. The match paired married women for the second time in 54 years. This could be quite a day for Mrs. King. Billie Jean and Rosemary Casals are partners in today's women's doubles final against defending champions and No. 1 seeds Miss Bueno and Nancy Richey of San Angelo, Tex. In addition, Mrs. King was paired with Owen Davidson of Australia—and seeded first—in the mixed doubles event. They met Ken Fletcher and Karen Krantzcke of Australia in the final. If Billie Jean wins or shares the three titles, she will turn a trick last accomplished in 1950 by American's Louise Brough. The men's championship, after beginning with upsets and shocks all along the line, ended predictably Friday with Newcombe giving Australia its ninth men's single title here in the last 12 years.

Stealing attention from the youngsters will be the running of unbeaten Argentine sensation Forli in a betless exhibition race which will precede the regular program. Probable favorites in the Derby are Miss Patricia Jacob's Reason to Hail and Louis Rowan's California pride, Ruken. Each will carry 128 pounds. Others in the 1 1/4-mile Derby are Jungle Road and Dr. Roy E. each carrying 123. Tumble Wind at 117, Pagan Gem, Dr. Isby, Duncan Junction, Hill Shine and Beau Alibi, all at 114. Reason to Hail, who will have jockey Walter Blum aboard, apparently found the Eastern colts a little too tough and hopes for something less today. The dark brown colt, who placed third in the Saranac Handicap at Aqueduct behind Bold Hour last Saturday, was flown to Ingleswood Tuesday. Fernando Alvarez has the mount on Ruken, who, although he is winless in three outings here this summer, probably will be a slight choice over Reason to Hail. The son of Nashville, who also started in the Kentucky Derby, finished eighth, was a flying second to Dr. Roy E. in the Cinema Cap and appears to be coming up to the Derby at his best. The Nashville colt, who as a two-year-old captured the Del Mar Futurity, is the most affluent member of the Derby cast, earning $220,485 with seven wins in 19 lifetime efforts. Dr. Roy E. will have Bill Mahorney in the boot. Dr. Roy won the Debonair Stakes at six furlongs early in May, was a disappointing 11th in the Will Rogers Stakes, but then redeemed himself and proved he could sustain his speed over a distance of ground with a wire-to-wire victory in the 1 1/8-mile Cinema. Jungle Road, who like Dr. Roy will pack 123 pounds, was an impressive winner in the Will Rogers but has been unable to win since. Jockey Alvaro Pineda

Oriole Pitcher Turns Hitter Sued for Assaulting Detective

CHICAGO (UPI)—A house detective for a Chicago hotel Friday sought $25,000 in damages from Eddie Fisher on charges the Baltimore Oriole pitcher struck him in the back and threw him against a wall. Ronald Bernagiel, 27, an employee of the Sheraton-Chicago hotel, charged that he was maliciously and wantonly assaulted when he went to Fisher's room at 4:30 a.m. Thursday to inquire about "loud noises." Bernagiel said he was accompanied by Robert Kreda, a fellow house detective, when they answered a complaint from the occupant of an adjoining room that loud music and other noises in Fisher's room were keeping him awake. Bernagiel said one of about four of five men who were in Fisher's room answered his knock and opened the door. Fisher, he said in the suit, was crouched at a radio or phonograph apparently turning dials at the time. He interrupted his tuning and stepped up to Bernagiel and Kreda and "hurled a tirade of foul language and obscenities," the suit charges. Bernagiel said that as he turned to leave the room, Fisher struck him in the back and threw Kreda at him. The impact knocked Bernagiel against the wall, injuring his back, the suit charged.

CHICAGO (P) — Owner Charles O. Finley was mum Friday on reports he may renew efforts to shift the franchise of his Kansas City Athletics. Finley, Chicago insurance executive, tossed a "no comment" at queries concerning a possible switch of the A's to Oakland, Calif., or possibly Milwaukee, Wis. "But why don't you ask me about our attendance at Kansas City this season?" Finley told an Associated Press reporter. "I'll tell you anyway. We're down 94,287 in attendance and $198,000 in receipts from last year," said Finley without further comment. One report has it that Finley, who has shown no interest in plans for a multipurpose stadium in Kansas City, will canvas American League owners on a possible franchise shift at the All-Star game in Anaheim next week. Asked if he would go to Anaheim, Finley said: "No comment." The major leagues have their annual midsummer meeting in Chicago Aug. 2-3-4, but Finley shrugged off a question as to the possibility of American League action on a switch of the A's. "I don't know what is on the agenda," Finley said.

World record holders at every distance from 100 to 10,000 meters and in half of the field events will be spotlighted today and Sunday in the Coliseum. More than 180 athletes from 31 nations will participate in the USA-British Commonwealth track and field dual. The action, matching the world's swiftest, strongest girls as well as boys, will commence at 12:30 p.m. today, and at noon on Sunday.

While the Yanks are strong favorites to win the team point race, the competition figures so close that only one "sure thing" is on the grounds, world shotput record holder Randy Matson.

The events most likely to bring some 25,000 fans to their feet are the 1,500 meters today, the 5,000 meters Sunday.

The 1,500 matches Jim Ryun, Kansas U. sophomore who only weeks ago lowered his mile record to 3:51.1, and Kipchoke Keino of Kenya. Three weeks ago Keino toured the mile in 3:55.0 at an elevation of 6,000 feet — and without wings.

No one has approached such a time at a similar altitude. Some connoisseurs computerized his performance as the equivalent of a 3:49.0 mile.

Ryun owns world records at a half-mile and mile, and he has been pointing for Herb Elliott's 1,500 standard of 3:35.6. Ryun's best at the distance is 3:36.1, Keino's 3:36.8.

A thorough field test of Ford's popular Econoline SuperVan, equipped for ambulance use (above), has been concluded by the University of Nebraska.

The extensive testing of the low-cost ambulance application was conducted in eight rural and metropolitan communities in Nebraska. As a result, a standard Econoline SuperVan package for use as an ambulance or special police purposes now can be ordered from any Ford dealership.

The test report, financed by a grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said, "The economy approach of this ambulance allows many communities to re-evaluate their requirements and to note that inexpensive vehicles can be used to save lives."

"WITH THIS break in the price barrier it is conceivable that small communities can afford two of these units to replace the conventional combination rescue-ambulances now being operated."

"Even some of the larger private industrial organizations could afford to have one on the premises for emergency transportation of industrial accident (victims) to hospitals," the report said.

The Harvard, Neb., volunteer fire department, one of the eight communities selected to test the van, reported after one month of testing that the van "pleased them to the degree that they raised the funds to purchase one for the community."

The optional package makes the SuperVan ideal for use as an economy ambulance, or as a riot-

Withdraw TV Charge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Communications Commission said Friday the California Democratic State Central Committee had withdrawn its complaint against Los Angeles station KTLA-TV for the election eve endorsement of Ronald Reagan by one of its broadcasters.

The commission said the complaint, charging a violation of the FCC's fairness doctrine was withdrawn after a memorandum of understanding had been drawn up between the committee and Golden West Broadcasters Inc., owner of the station. As a result of the withdrawal, the FCC said it was dismissing the case.

The complaint involved an election eve program during which broadcaster George Putnam endorsed Reagan for governor. Then Gov. Edmond (Pat) Brown, Reagan's opponent, was not notified of the endorsement or offered an opportunity to reply before the election.

In answering the complaint, the station explained the comments were ad lib and officials of the station did not learn of them until later.

The FCC said the agreement between the two was worked out to overcome committee objections. The commission said the agreement met the station's obligations under the fairness doctrine.

STRIKE THREAT Pentagon Gives In on Ship Waiver

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department withdrew Friday night a request for a waiver on use of foreign-flag ships in the coastwise oil trade — after the waiver had brought a threat of a general maritime strike next Tuesday.

The Pentagon announcement did not mention the telegram sent earlier in the day by three maritime unions demanding that the waiver be lifted on pain of a strike which the unionists said would tie up shipping on all the nation's coast and halt the Vietnam sea-lift.

Assistant Secretary of Defense Paul R. Ignatius, in charge of installations and logistics, sent this letter, dated Friday, to Lester D. Johnson, customs commissioner:

"My staff was advised today that the Mobil Oil Corp. has been able to secure U.S. flag tankers to meet the need described in my letter to you of 24 June, 1967."

"Accordingly, the 30-day waiver for use of foreign-flag tankers as requested in my 24 June letter is no longer necessary and the request is hereby withdrawn."

ALTHOUGH the telegram demanding an end to the waiver was sent by only three unions, their leaders said they expected other seagoing unions, longshoremen and oil workers to join them if a walk-out were ordered.

"Unless this waiver is lifted," a telegram to the Defense Department declared, "we shall withdraw the service we are now courageously rendering on ships meeting Department of Defense sealift requirements starting at noon Tuesday, July 11."

The telegram was addressed to Defense Secretary McNamara, who is on an inspection trip in South Vietnam, and Asst. Defense Secretary Paul R. Ignatius.
